<input type="checkbox"/> Rational	Support to refugees in their academic study projects UCL has decided to offer (free of charge) refugees planning to undertake or continue studies in higher education the opportunity to follow training in foreign languages (French, English) and to officially register for three so-called isolated courses ("cours isolés" i.e. not part of an academic track) in order to familiarise themselves with the Belgian higher education system. Refugees are exempted from tuition fees concerning both enrolment and participation in the three courses. Practically speaking, candidates can contact: <input type="checkbox"/> The candidate wishes to attend; <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Office Service des inscriptions) to register for these isolated courses (after the faculty has given the green light) : http://www.uclouvain.be/inscription. <input type="checkbox"/> If need be, the Student Advice Service (http://www.uclouvain.be/cio) for advice on future study track, or Lycée Martin V (UCL affiliated secondary school) for a 7th grade specialising in mathematics or sciences; <input type="checkbox"/> Faculty candidates through the various steps of the process(http://www.uclouvain.be/aide.html).
